Project [REDACTED]
18-22 April 1966

25X1A2g

Background

Starting in 1954 the Central Intelligence Agency annually has presented an orientation course, known as Project [REDACTED] for members of the Military Establishment. This program has been provided for members of the Unified and Specified Commands, plus certain selected individuals from CONUS elements. Recently Project [REDACTED] has been supplemented by a two-day briefing on the Central Intelligence Agency for representatives of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Defense Intelligence Agency.

Objectives and Scope

The primary objective of this one-week orientation is to maintain and improve reciprocal CIA-DOD cooperation and coordination through providing selected officers of the Armed Services the opportunity to become more fully and accurately acquainted with the CIA mission and capabilities in peace and war. Key CIA officials will discuss the organization and functions of their components. Emphasis will be on those activities involving CIA-DOD inter-relationships, particularly in overseas areas. This will be supplemented by substantive intelligence coverage of certain critical world regions. Opportunities are provided for conferees to present and discuss their views on CIA-DOD relationships.
